Farm Relief Bill Introduced In Congress

Senator Mc Nary Offers Legislative Measure Drafted on Coolidge Design — Establishes Federal Farm Board With $300,000,000 Fund to Assist Stabilization Cooporations In Handling Surplus Crops — Equalization Fee Omitted — Provision For Price Insurance.

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP).—Farm relief legislation drafted on the Coolidge design and apparently with administration approval was started on its way today in the senate with introduction of a surplus measure by Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon.

It establishes a federal farm board with a fund of $360,000,000 to assist proposed stabilization corporations in the orderly marketing of crops through the withholding of surpluses from the market.

McNary, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and co-author of the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen bill, left out of the measure the controversial equalization fee provision which drew so much fire from the administration.

"The bill," he explained in a statement, "includes the principal features of the McNary-Haugen bill without the equalization fee. But the new measure is more than the old bill with the controversial fee section stricken out. It includes not only those basic provisions of farm relief that have won the support of farm leaders in general, but also the recommendation of Secretary Jardine and other administration leaders, together with the surplus control legislation promised in the Republican platform."

Farm Board of Seven Members.

The farm board would be composed of the secretary of agriculture and six members, three Republicans and three Democrats, to be appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the senate.

The board would be empowered to organize advisory councils for any commodity, selecting the seven members of the council from persons nominated by the cooperative marketing associations and producers handling the commodity. It would be the duty of the council to advise with the board on crop situations and to advise producers through their organizations of suitable programs of planting or breeding.

After the organization of an advisory council for a commodity the federal board would be empowered to certify a stabilization corporation for that commodity, to be organized under the law of any state. All voting stock or membership interests in the corporation must be held by cooperative marketing associations or producers handling the commodity involved.

These corporations would have authority to act as a marketing agent for members and to purchase, sell or market any quantity of the agricultural commodity or its products.

Handle Surpluses Through Loans.

Under the plan, crop surpluses would be handled by the corporations through loans from the federal board. But no loss would be paid from the treasury of the United States. Whenever the board determines that a surplus is liable in any crop, it may make loans to the corporations up to $225,000,000 for the buying and storing of the surplus.

Loans to the corporatoins, to the cooperative marketing associations and through them to individual producers would be at the rate of four per cent.

Upon request of the cooperative marketing associations and producers handling any perishable agricultural commodity, the board would be authorized to assist in forming a clearing house association for the purpose of minimizing losses in the distribution of the commodity and to provide distribution among various markets.

Select Board Members for Fitness.

"The plan as a whole," McNary said, "would be administered by a federal farm board consisting of the secretary of agriculture and six members who would be in sympathy with agriculture and selected for their demonstrated capacity and fitness for the job.

"Numerous ways are provided for encouraging the cooperative movement. Aside from loans to stabilization corporations, the farm board is authorized to make loans to the individual cooperative associations to enable them to make larger advances to the member at the time of delivery of the product to the association, beyond the advances possible under existing credit agencies. Safeguards are provided for the protection of the funds advanced.

Price Insurance Provided.

"The farm board is also authorized to help provide price insurance. Under certain conditions designed to protect such funds as may be advanced to start the insurance plan, the board is given ample authority to work out a sound basis for the insurance, and is expected to proceed with caution since price insurance is comparatively new. The insurance should enable a cooperative association to make greater advances to the members on their delivery of the commodity to the association.

"While this plan goes beyond any legislation yet enacted for the aid of farmers, its ultimate success is in part dependent on existing laws providing for agricultural credit, cooperative marketing, research in agriculture, adequate tariffs, and other agricultural legislation."

Leaders Divided On Farm Relief

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP).—Republican leaders in Congress remain divided on the question of whether to attempt farm relief legislation at this session or leave the problem to an extra session promised by Herbert Hoover if it is necessary.

There are signs that some of the Hoover members of the party prefer to leave the farm relief problem to his administration entirely, feeling that this was a vital part of his campaign and that he will be held responsible for its disposition.

Also, there are rumors from some of the farm leaders outside of Congress who supported the McNary-Haugen bills vetoed by President Coolidge that they would prefer to have the legislation go over to the newly-elected President. Their concern is reported to center about the appointments the President would make to the proposed federal farm board.

Other Republicans interested in disposing of a farm marketing bill and avoiding an extra session for farm relief until the fall, when they feel the tariff revision can be undertaken, are hoping to draw from Mr. Coolidge some indication of the view he will take toward inaugurating the farm relief administration, if it is authorized late in his term.

Senator Borah of Idaho, one of Mr. Hoover's hardest campaign workers, is insisting on the extra session promised by the President-elect for the consideration of farm relief and tariff revision. He says tariff revision is a vital part of agricultural improvement and should be considered with any farm marketing legislation.

Decorate Streets For the Holidays

The Uptown Merchants' Association has received a quantity of evergreen trees which are being erected on the uptown streets. The trees will be erected on telephone, trolley and light poles on the business streets and also on the fronts of buildings. Those trees which are erected on the buildings will be illuminated at night by many electric lights. Street decorations this year will be similar to those of last season except that the lighting of Christmas trees will be confined to those on the buildings and each merchant will provide his own lighting. Many of the trees have already been placed in position and the uptown streets are already taking on a holiday look.

The downtown business section is rapidly assuming a yule time appearance. Through the courtesy of the Downtown Business Men's Association 150 small trees of an attractive variety were placed along the sidewalks this morning. City employes dug a hole in the street at the corner of West Strand and Broadway in which the gigantic Community Christmas Tree will be placed soon.

This enormous tree, which proves a grand spectacle each year, will be put in place by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. Joseph Gruberg will wire the tree and place hundreds of colored bulbs on it. A number of downtown merchants are now busy decorating their stores for the Christmas season, which promises to be a big event in their section of the city.

While Battleship Maryland Glides Smoothly Over Placid Waters Off the Coast of Northern Peru—Receives Gifts Weighing Over a Ton.

U. S. S. Maryland, Dec. 4 (AP).—The battleship Maryland was gliding smoothly over placid waters off the coast of northern Peru today while President-elect Hoover rested and studied. Three hundred yards to the starboard steamed the Almirante Grau, flagship of the Peruvian Navy, escorting Mr. Hoover to Callao, where he will pay his second South American good will visit tomorrow.

The mountains of Peru were dimly visible in the distance. Mr. Hoover began to study and analyze a great mass of printed matter prepared for him by Ecuadorian officials. This data was given to the President-elect when he visited Guayaquil and will be used by him to supplement impressions gained on his visit from conversations with various officials.

While the President-elect continued his studies attaches were sorting gifts with which the Ecuadorian government had honored Mr. Hoover and his wife. About 30 bales, boxes and packing cases were sent aboard the Maryland as well as numerous smaller packages. The gifts weighed in all more than a ton. They included a variety of works of art, examples of wood carving and weaving, and some beautiful antique jewelry among which was a pearl brooch.

When the Peruvian flagship came alongside, she saluted Mr. Hoover with 21 guns. This escort of honor was provided as a mission of United States Naval officers is acting at the request of the government of Peru as advisory directors of naval affairs. The Maryland did not return the salute because the firing was considered a personal tribute to Mr. Hoover.

After receiving the freedom of the city of Callao from the mayor, the Hoover party will motor ten miles to Lima, the Peruvian capital.

The Hoover party will greet members of the American Colony at the United States Embassy and then will go to the Presidential palace to meet Senor Leguia. There will be a luncheon at the American Embassy for the President of Peru and in the evening there will be a dinner for Mr. Hoover and his party at the Presidential palace. Coolidge Urges Naval Increase and Farm Relief

Points to Cuba as Proof That United States Has No Militaristic or Imperialistic Designs—Reiterates Suggestion For Federal Farm Board to Aid in Marketing Surpluses With Aid of Government Money.

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—In what probably will be his valedictory to Congress, President Coolidge today emphasized once more his desire for an increase in America's naval strength, urged a farm relief program which would meet approval of the administration, made suggestions for legislation covering the most important subjects, and ended by declaring the nation was in an era of prosperity and peace such as never before had been experienced.

For farm relief, Mr. Coolidge reiterated his suggestion for the creation of a federal farm board in order that the government might aid in promoting orderly marketing and in handling surpluses clearly due to weather and seasonal conditions. He suggested a revolving fund from government money, until producers' associations had erected stabilizing organizations to finance themselves through regular credit institutions.

Temporary expediences, he said, "though sometimes capable of appeasing demands of the moment, cannot permanently solve the surplus problem and might seriously aggravate it. Hence putting the government directly into business, subsidies and price fixing, and the alluring promises of political action as a substitute for private initiative, should be avoided."

Wants Fifteen Cruiser Bill Passed.

Following the lines of his Armistice Day speech, the President's message repeated his desire for passage of the fifteen cruiser bill now pending in the Senate.

"The bill before the Senate with the elimination of the time clause should be passed," he said, referring to the section which provides that the ships must be laid down within three years.

"I wish to repeat again for the benefit of the timid and the suspicious," said the President, "that this country is neither militaristic nor imperialistic."

Protecting Our Foreign Interests.

"Many people at home and abroad, who constantly make this charge, are the same ones who are even more solicitous to have us extend assistance to foreign countries. When such assistance is granted, the inevitable result is that we have foreign interests. For us to refuse the customary support and protection of such interests would be in derogation of the sovereignty of this nation. Our largest foreign interests are in the British Empire, France, and Italy. Because we are constantly solicitous for those interests, I doubt if anyone would suppose that those countries feel we harbor toward them any militaristic or imperialistic design.

"As for smaller countries, we certainly do not want any of them. We are more anxious than they are to have their sovereignty respected. Our entire influence is in behalf of their independence. Cuba stands as a witness to our adherence to this principle."

Opposes Putting Government in Business.

The President also reiterated his opposition to putting the government into the power or nitrate business in connection with legislation affecting the Colorado River or Muscle Shoals. Of the Colorado River he said a summary of the report of a board appointed to study that project showed it preferred the Black Canyon site. He added that he felt warranted "in recommending a measure which will protect the rights of the states, discharge the necessary government functions, and leave the electrical field to private enterprise."

In connection with Muscle Shoals, President Coolidge suggested a division of the property into "its two component parts of power and nitrate plants" by which it would be possible to "dispose of the power, reserving the right to any concern that wished to make nitrates to use any power that might be needed for that purpose." He opposed building another dam at public expense, saying future operators should provide for that themselves.

"But if they were to be required to repay the cost of such dam, with the prevailing commercial rate of interest, this difficulty will be considerably lessened," he said.

Surplus Instead of Deficit.

Reviewing the efforts of the administration to economize in public expenditures, the President declared that instead of a deficit of $94,000,000 which was expected last June for the current fiscal year, "the combination of economy and good times now indicates a surplus of about $27,000,000." He said, however, that there would be no large enough surplus for further tax reduction.

Salvation Army Declines to Share

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 4, 1928.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Sir:—It has been brought to my attention that the management of two of the theatres in this city has announced an intention of giving to the Salvation Army a small percentage of the receipts of the Sunday performances at these theatres.

No one representing these theatres has approached me, as the commandant of the local corps of the Salvation Army, or has asked me if this would be agreeable to me or to my people. The Salvation Army is in need of funds. In a particular way funds are needed now, as the Christmas season approaches, and as toys and clothing and food must be bought to be given to the poor and the needy. Even so, the Salvation Army is essentially a religious organization and as such is committed to the proposition that the Sunday should be held in due and proper respect and should not be commercialized. I have no quarrel with those who see the matter in a different light, but to me it seems that it would be most inappropriate and inconsistent to ask the Salvation Army to profit or benefit by any movement that in a fundamental way, would tend, according to our views on the matter, to break down the Sabbath, or the Sunday, which we always have contended is a day to be dedicated to the worship of God.

I therefore take this, the only way I know of, to tell the people of Kingston that the Salvation Army is in no wise concerned in the receipts of the theatres as they present the performances on Sunday.

With good will to everybody, with antagonism to no one, with charity in our hearts as the Christmas season approaches and hoping that I have made clear the position of the Salvation Army, without giving offense to any one, I am,

Respectfully and faithfully,
ENSIGN V. M. VANSYCKLE.

Christmas Gin Plant Seized

Agents From Local Office Visit Dutchess County and Seize Plant Being Used to Turn Out What is Said to be Gordon Gin.

Federal agents from the Kingston enforcement office on Monday visited Wassaic, Dutchess county, where they discovered a plant where Christmas gin was being manufactured. The plant was located in a repair shop on the property of W. V. Bowman and a large quantity of intoxicating liquors was seized. The plant was being used to turn out what is said to be Gordon gin.

On the premises the agents are reported to have found about 100 five gallon tins of alcohol from which the gin was being made. There was also found a large quantity of the finished product which was put up in handsomely labeled quart bottles and done up in packages containing a half dozen bottles. There were some 500 bottles of this product seized. The stuff was brought to the Kingston storeroom of the government from where it will be shipped to the army base at Brooklyn for disposal.

While the truck was being unloaded in the local storehouse there was a large crowd of interested persons who stopped to witness the unloading of what har been intended for Christmas cheer.

David Bowman, alleged owner of the liquors, will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly Friday.

Modern Situation And Literature

Politics and Economics as Revealed in Well-Known Books Outlined by Lecture Before Members of the Monday Club.

The subject of the Monday Club lecture this week was "The Modern Situation as Revealed in Literature", and the lecturer was Prof. E. N. Voorhees of the department of English of St. Stephen's College. Mr. Voorhees took up the novel and fiction only in his presentation of "Literature", and furthermore, while recognizing the modern tendency toward internationalism, considered only the Anglo-Saxon with a touch of Irish and German fiction of modern times. Politics and economics as inseparable factors in present day utilitarianism — the greatest good of the greatest number —played an important part in the books that he considered.

The political novel be first presented was Disraeli's "Endymion"; then came Anthony Trollope's works, especially "Phineas Finn". These were followed by George Eliot's "Felix Holt" and then Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Marcella" and "Sir George Tressady", as well as H. G. Wells's "The New Machiavelli" as notable English contributions.

Coming down to American novels of the same character, Mr. Voorhees took up Winston Churchill's "Coniston" and "Mr. Crewe's Career", and then "Revelry" by Franklin Adams. Others were "Democracy" by Henry Adams, "The Honorable Peter Stirling", by Paul Leicester Ford. Under the head of economic novels of present day America, Mr. Voorhees talked over Frank Norris's "McTeague", Upton Sinclair's latest novel "Boston", which he described as being practically two volumes on the Sacco-Vanzetti case; W. L. George's "A Bed of Roses"; Theodore Dreiser's "Sister Carrie".

Two other books that were given a fair amount of consideration were G. B. Shaw's "The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism", and Spengler's "Decline of the West".

It must not be taken that, because of the foregoing brief summary, Mr. Voorhees merely tabulated the books mentioned. He went to the core of each, turned the light of a kindly and subtle humor and the power of thoughtful analytical insight upon what he found, leaving his audience keen to read all of the books he mentioned and with the feeling that there was more of optimism than pessimism to be felt in connection with "The Modern Situation as Revealed in Literature".

Prof. Voorhees was good enough to provide a list of worth-while books to be read by those interested and the list follows:

Supreme Court Trial Term Opens

Judge Russell Directs Roll to Be Called at Each Grand Jury Session to Prevent Unauthorized Persons Being Present—Getting Ready for Trial of Cases.

Webster D. Sheldon of Rochester was appointed foreman of the grand jury Monday by Judge Russell and Thomas McMullen of Wawarsing was made assistant foreman to act in the absence of the foreman. Mose Hauptfalling of Kingston was the only member of the panel of grand jurors who was not present at the opening of the December term of the supreme court and he is out of the state. Four were excused by the court on presenting legal excuses. They were Frank Carpenter of Platekill, James Diniston of Gardiner, Clare Haynes of Shandaken and Fred Wilklow of Lloyd.

In his charge to the grand jury Judge Russell after outlining the duties of the body stated that in order to prevent any unauthorized person from being present at sessions of the grand jury he would have a list of members of the grand jury prepared and certified to by the clerk and at each session of the grand jury he directed that the foreman call the roll.

Of the trial panel of jurors one did not answer to the roll call, two were dead, one was out of the state and one out of the county and therefor not served while two were ill and presented doctor's certificates. Six additional jurors were excused by the court on presenting legal excuses. Those excused by the court are Edward D. Coffey of Kingston, Charles T. Craig of Rosendale, Calvin Decker of Shawangunk, John Hotaling of Marbletown, George Rider of Saugerties, John E. Vanderlyn of New Paltz.

No Cases Ready For Trial.

On the call of the day calendar which had been made up Friday, none of the cases were ready for trial and consequently no actual work was taken up Monday afternoon. A day calendar was made up and court recessed until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

No. 1, on the calendar, a preferred case, was answered ready for the plaintiff but defendant was not ready and moved the case over until Thursday. The action is The People of the State of New York against Jacob M. Frost, a penalty action for an illegal net.

Cases Settled.

Among the cases announced as settled were:

No. 273½. Elizabeth Balisteria against Baruk Cigar, Inc., negligence action. Harry E. Schirick for plaintiff and Pettigrew & Glennery for defendant.

No. 274. Antonio Balisteria against Baruk Cigar, Inc., negligence action. Harry E. Schirick for plaintiff and Pettigrew & Glennery for defendant.

No. 577. Ethel May Arnold against Irving Jackson, negligence. [illegible] Flanigan for plaintiff, Barnett Cohen for defendant.

No. 2. Harry Jackson against Walker D. Hines, director general of Railroads, etc., and the New York Central Railroad, a negligence action, was dismissed. The case was stricken from the calendar in 1925 and replaced again by plaintiff's attorney. F. E. W. Darrow originally appeared for plaintiff, Floyd W. Powell, who now appears for plaintiff, agreed to have the case stricken off under the rule of the court. Amos Van Etten appeared for defendant and stated that it was agreed that the case go off.

Seaman Wants Case Tried.

John R. Seaman of Highland, who has appeared in court many times, opposed a motion to have an action for foreclosure of a chattel mortgage brought by Henry Erichsen against Joseph Falci, Vera Seaman and another put over until the second week of the term. Seaman requested the court to have the case set down for immediate trial but the case was set down for Wednesday and the plaintiff was given an opportunity to file affidavit. The plaintiff, by John Wadlin, asked the case go over until the second week on the grounds that A. W. Lent, who is an important and necessary witness, was ill. Mr. Lent has but recently been released from the hospital after an operation. Seaman opposed the motion, stating that Mr. Lent was not necessary and that H. A. Lent was counsel for plaintiff and not A. W. Lent, and that the case had once been put over the term on account of illness of counsel.

Bus Case Added to Calendar.

John W. Eckert for plaintiff's attorney moved on the calendar as No. 143½, an action, William R. Garrison against Paramount Bus Corporation. This action was moved on the March calendar for trial but defendant moved for judgment on pleadings before Judge Morschauser at special term and the motion was granted. Plaintiff appealed to the appellate division from the order of Judge Morschauser and the appellate division reversed the findings of that judge and the case now comes back for trial. It grows out of the operation of a bus line by defendant through territory which plaintiff claims defendant had no right to operate. It was placed on the calendar and marked for trial.

Cotton Banned for Xmas Decorations

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy stated today that it is requested that merchants in decorating their windows for the Christmas holiday refrain from using inflammable cotton. There is much danger from using ordinary cotton in store window decorations. Where it is desired to use cotton there is manufactured a cotton that is non-inflammable. Last year the merchants cooperated with the fire department in eliminating fire hazards and the same cooperation will undoubtedly be extended this year.

VIRGINIA STUDENTS CHARGED WITH EXCESSIVE DRINKING

Richmond, Va., Dec. 4 (AP).—Students at the University of Virginia have been charged with excessive drinking and their president, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, has come to their defense.

Following publication of a letter by the Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League, to Governor Byrd of Virginia, in which Hepburn said reports indicated that drinking at the school amounted to a state-wide scandal, Dr. Alderman replied that liquor consumption at Virginia was no greater than at other similar institutions. He also declared emphatically that in no sense was it entitled to be characterized as a state-wide scandal.

Dr. Hepburn called on Governor Byrd to permit Federal prohibition agents as uninterrupted access to the university grounds, fraternity houses and student body as bootleggers are now reported to have. He explained that the purpose of the agents would not be to punish drinking professors or students but to protect them from bootleggers.

Governor Byrd said that he would refer Dr. Hepburn's letter when it was received to Dr. Alderman, as was customary in such cases.

Dr. Hepburn mentioned no specific reports of drinking but a statement commenting on drinking among students had been made after the North Carolina-Virginia football game by a Fredericksburg minister.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS.

An intelligence test for first voters can hardly be objected to as undemocratic in a republic full of free public schools, and there can be no quarrel with the motive of Prof. Munro of Harvard in urging that other states follow the example of New York in requiring such a test, so that "no one gets on the voters' list unless his intelligence is at least equal to that of a 10-year-old child." In 19 States "literacy" tests are already required, but they are said to be applied by registrars or election officials more or less perfunctorily. In New York a test is made to discover whether would-be voters can use the English language "intelligently" and a reading-writing test is required by the State Education Department.

New York's intelligence test has been in operation five years and is said to be successful. Evening schools are provided in addition to the public schools and it is aimed that immigrants especially shall reach the ballot box only after passing through the schoolhouse. We read that this year the demands upon the principals, teachers and others conducting the tests given uniformly through the State were especially heavy. The number of applicants was about three times as great as in 1927. Of these, 66,641 (48,809 men and 19,652 women) passed, while 8,247 failed (7,184 men and 1,163 women). This is said to be an improved showing, the percentage of failures in previous years having been much heavier—the improvement possibly owing in part to immigration restriction. That such a test and the instruction provided are worth while can hardly be questioned.

CHURCH POLITICS.

The Southern Methodist Church severed its connection with the Northern branch during the stormy Civil War period and has never since consented to reunion. The possibility of another split in that aggressively political church body is now suggested by the account of present disturbances written for the New York Times by Julian Harris, editor of the Columbus, Ga., Enquirer-Sun, who reveals the existence of political hostility between two elements of the church in Georgia which were arrayed against each other in the recent election. It would appear that the Democratic Methodists might forgive and forget but the "Hoovercrat" or militant prohibition Methodists are too arrogant and aggressive in their triumph to make the attainment of peace readily possible.

At the recent South Georgia Methodist Conference in Columbus a resolution was passed which "thanked God for the defeat of Governor Smith and the Democratic Party" and stating that "the overwhelming defeat of the friend and advocate of the liquor traffic is a great moral victory" for the effect of which "we give God grateful thanks." This in a city and county which went Democratic caused both amazement and indignation among regular Democrats of the Methodist Church. Nor does the disturbance end there, for "the Hoovercrats and anti-Smithites are preparing to reorganize the Democratic party by throwing out Tammany and the wets." This looks as if there was hasty assumption in the prediction that the political split in the South was only temporary, and that it is likely to be kept open, at least for some considerable time, by what Mr. Harris characterizes as the "spirit of political arrogance in a religious body."

THE NEW HOOVER METHOD

Mr. Hoover must have pleased Latin-Americans by his first utterances in their part of the world, for he stressed the fact that there is something we can learn from them as well as something they can learn from us. At Amalpa he said:

We in the United States have learned much from the experience of our Latin-America neighbors... I have felt that the larger personal acquaintances, both with our neighboring countries and with their points of view, and above all with the men who have been elected to responsibility in their governments, would be valuable in the task which lies before me.

Hitherto American official visitors to Latin-America have not neglected to stress the desirability of mutual good will and friendship between nations, but there has been too much rhetoric on the subject of the nobility of our motives, too much intimation that our leadership is inevitable as well as desirable, too much praise of our "helping hand"—which, as Latin-Americans know, have forwarded the interests of American investors as well as "restored order" in small disturbed States; in a word, too much expression of self-satisfaction coupled with an involuntary, possibly unconscious, condescension. Mr. Hoover has begun by treating Latin-Americans as equals, than which nothing could be more gratifying to a proud and sensitive people.

"Prohibition," says a Washington dispatch, "already has cost the government in excess of $225,000,000 and resulted in a loss of revenue of more than $3,000,000,000." The dispatch adds that the annual cost is increasing so fast that the government statisticians "will make no guess as to what it will cost ten years from now." In other words, the wildest guessing in this connection might prove to be marked understatement.

The San Francisco Chronicle is not unreasonably curious to know "what becomes of furniture that is too old even for poor folks and not yet old enough for rich folks?"

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

THE COLD BATH.

Perhaps you tried out the morning cold bath at some period in your life and you gave it up for some reason.

With many individuals the idea of cold water first thing in the morning is not pleasant.

Others like the sensation that follows a cold bath and a rub down, and they go at their breakfast with zest.

Others seem to get a nice reaction after the bath and feel good until about 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning, and then get a sagged, droopy feeling.

There are very few who can start in and take cold baths and feel real good all day afterwards. Most of them will get the draggy feeling.

Why?

First, the blood pressure and temperature are low early in the morning, and the body does not seem to like losing any more animal heat at this time, such as is caused by a cold bath.

Then there is the shock to the system which follows a cold bath.

This shock is too much for the majority of folks.

Now does this mean that the cold bath or cold shower should not be taken in the morning?

No, because a short cold bath of one minute, with temperature from 50° to 80° F., can really become of real help in stimulating the circulation, and other processes of the body.

A simple method used by "beginners" is to warm water in the bath tub sufficient to reach just above the ankles. Then a cold shower is taken and the warm water about the ankles prevents the loss of too much animal heat, and also lessens the shock.

However, after a time this warm water can be dispensed with, and the cold shower, one minute, may be taken. The "shock" is really beneficial.

Further, a short cold bath during the day when the temperature and blood pressure are higher, may prove very helpful in the same individual who got a poor or harmful reaction in the early morning.

MILTON.

Milton, Dec. 3.—Frank Lugar has had a new furnace and boiler installed in his home on Sands avenue. The work was done by the Marlborough Plumbing Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goehringer of New York attended the funeral service of the former's mother Friday afternoon. Mr. Goehringer will remain here until the business affairs of his mother are settled. He is connected with the Federal Sugar Refining Company of New York city and had been staying with his mother since Wednesday, November 21. Mrs. Goehringer's illness was caused by a serious stroke of paralysis and she was unconscious up to the time of her death. Her husband William A. Goehringer, passed away two years ago.

Joseph Lugar of New York city was a week-end guest at the home of Frank Lugar Sunday, November 24.

The Misses Lavina, Eva and Helen French of New York and Brooklyn were guests of their uncle, Frank Lugar, Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Briscoe spent the holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Crowell at Dumont, N. J.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Needlecraft and Women's Missionary Societies will be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Sager Wednesday afternoon, December 5.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Herman Sager left her automobile parked in the lower part of Watson avenue near the residence of Philip Lyons. The brakes let up and the car went down to the edge of the bank opposite the Briscoe residence. The heavy two cable fence held it from falling down into the deep ravine. No damage was done except a few scratches on the fenders. Several years ago a truck of R. W. Hallock's driven by Edward Hamm backed off the bank near the vinegar factory down into the ravine. The driver was killed. The truck had a load of coal on it and went down off the highest part of the ravine.

The Milton Melody Club has begun practicing Christmas music for an evening service to be held in the Methodist Church during the holidays.

The many friends here of George Brundidge of Marlborough were shocked to hear of his sudden death last Tuesday night. Funeral services were held from his late home Friday afternoon. Mr. Brundidge had been the Marlborough correspondent for the Sunday Courier and Newburgh Daily News for several years and had done considerable watch and clock repairing for Milton residents. This was his principal business. He will be greatly missed in both communities.

The Hallock vinegar factory is through grinding apples for the season two weeks earlier than usual on account of the shortage of the apple crop this year. The work of converting the apple juice into vinegar is being done, the generators have been started and Russel Hallock proprietor of the factory expects to be able to fill a large number of orders already received. Mr. Hallock recently purchased 1,000 barrels of sweet cider from the Edison Post Apple Products Company of Catskill. This has been placed in the Milton cold storage plant to await an advance in prices. There is an increasing demand for sweet cider and during the fall many shipments of the apple juice treated with benzoate of soda were sent out.

Thursday evening, December 13, the Maids and Matrons will present a play at the Community House entitled "The Disappearance of Benny."

Add Economy Tips.

Rosewood, Minn., (AP).—Polk county commissioners plan to save taxpayers money by denaturing 2,000 gallons of seized "moonshine" with kerosene and dispensing it as "anti-freeze" solution for motor cars.

ACTIVITIES AT REFORMED CHURCH OF THE COMFORTER

Sunday was a "Red Letter Day" at the Church of the Comforter when 57 men and women received the right hand of fellowship and were received into membership of the church. The church was crowded to the doors so that it was necessary to bring in chairs to seat all who attended. Following the ordinance of holy baptism and reception of members the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. It was a solemn occasion and one that will long be remembered by all who attended.

This large ingathering is the result of the "Home Visitation Campaign" during the week of November 11 when over seventy signed cards for the Christian life and desiring to join this church. Charles H. Brent, Bishop of Western New York, and Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, president of Trinity College, as delegates of the American Church.

Mr. Salisbury is a graduate of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, having specialized in entomology and plant pathology, as well as other phases of fruit growing. He was raised on a farm near Pheips, Ontario county, N. Y. Since graduation he has been employed as assistant manager of the Monroe County Farm Bureau.

During the winter months Mr. Salisbury will assist in carrying on the regular work of the Farm Bureau, such as personal visits, meetings, office work, editing the Farm and Home Bureau News, etc. Beginning about April 1, he will be located in the branch Farm Bureau at Highland to conduct the Spray Information Service. This service will be conducted in the usual manned during the 1929 season. Special cooperators will assist in financing the assistant during the Spray Service season.

Fruit growers will be very pleased to hear that an "all year" man will conduct the Spray Service work. This will give him an opportunity to become acquainted with the fruit growers and with local conditions in the county. This will be very valuable in being prepared to render accurate information from the beginning of the season, and throughout the year as well. Mr. Salisbury will spend considerable time getting acquainted with the fruit growers during the coming months.

Man's Hair Is Heavier

Delicate scales tell curious stories about hair. The Chinese and the Japanese have the heaviest hair—60 per cent heavier than that of the white races. Yet the hair of white persons is 60 per cent heavier than that of negroes. And man's hair weighs 18 per cent more than woman's.—Capper's Weekly.

Christmas Tree For T. B. Hospital.

Scarcely had Monday evening's issue of The Freeman appeared on the streets when Joseph Garbarino telephoned Mrs. C. N. Reed, in charge of the Christmas festival at the T. B. Hospital, that he would like to give the Christmas tree, as his family has done for so many years. Mr. Garbarino always selects a particularly handsome tree for the pleasure of the patients at the hospital.

Hudson Valley Dairy Interests.

One of the very important industries of the Hudson river valley and adjacent territories is the dairy industry. It is doubtful if the average person has any conception as to the amount of milk used in and around Kingston, but as an indication of the magnitude of this business, it is interesting to note that one million four hundred thousand milk bottles have been sold to the local dairymen within the last year by the Canfield Supply Compay, which is distributor for this territory. The Canfield Company has also contracted for a larger amount for 1929.

Feasting, Fasting In New York

Abundance of Places Where Food is Served, But Wide Divergence in Quality and Style—Various Kinds of "Atmosphere" Found With Food.

(By F. G. Clough)

The Kingston Daily Freeman recently printed a brief account from New York city of things seen and heard "Among the Arts," to which a sequel in a slightly different avenue of the Arts should have interest. This is an article written on eating in New York; for eating has come to be somewhat of a neglected art, and in New York city one finds appealing opportunity either to observe where and how the millions eat, or to give this matter serious attention because of the varied "rotisseries" and restaurants all about the city.

I think on the whole New Yorkers eat to live, and do not live to eat. Which isn't quite as it should be. The famous Dr. Johnson once wrote, "I look upon it, that he who does not mind his belly will hardly mind anything else," and it was Robert Burton, a Seventeenth century philosopher, who claimed that "as much valour is found in feasting as in fighting."

It must be said at the outset that eating depends too often on a man's finances,—especially is this true in New York. Only the rich man can eat when and where he pleases; the poor man eats when and where he can. But for both classes, New York offers succor.

Lunch Counters Make Dyspeptics

Of the drug store lunch counters, where daily thousands and thousands of clerks gobble down a sandwich and coffee, the less said the better; these places are fast making America a nation of dyspeptics. Their chief claim to existence is that they minimize the cost of the midday luncheon for shop and office clerks; that these counters are as numerous as the straps in the subways only means that at rush hours they are just as crowded as the subways. It might be understandable for one to eat peanuts at a circus, but for a man to eat his midday meal over the shoulders of a hungry mob is almost too much to stomach. But thousands are doing this every day in New York.

Another similar and equally popular place to eat is at one of the many automats, where you can change your seventy-five cents at the counter into fifteen nickels. Rows and rows of shiny mail-box cubby holes line the walls, and you can either read the labels, or peer into the boxes to take a look at the foodstuffs inside. These automats offer cafeteria counters with hot dishes; the spouts, where your nickel releases a handle and you pump out your own coffee, or cocoa, are fascinating—one wonders how the coffee and milk appear in separate streams, and never overflow the cup. But this is a mechanical age, and it seems to me the thousands of automat customers get just as much sustenance from turning knobs and handles as they do from the foods they eat.

Eating in Greenwich Village.

Perhaps you are one of the jaded business men seeking atmosphere with your meals. You would go to Greenwich Village, where hundreds and hundreds of "up-towners" go at night for a "different" meal. Here you have a large assortment of eating places. Mostly these Inns, Taverns, Whatnots, offer a table d'hote dinner, consisting of soup, relish, entree, salad and dessert, at prices ranging from one dollar to one dollar-fifty. Many of these eating places have Japanese waiters. Many of them have cosy nooks where you can face your companion in semi-seclusion over a wooden table. A few of them serve liquors with meals; all of them serve ash-trays. One of the chief attractions to the Bohemian eating places is in the folk who frequent them. Everybody is looking to see who else is there; of course if this goes on long enough, the diners get acquainted, and thus has come about a happy state of affairs, one conducive to better mastication and digestion. These small eating places are really more like the European eating places than the larger New York restaurants.

Or you might enjoy eating at one of the Italian Rotisseries, where roasted chicken and spaghetti are served. Of these there are many in the neighborhood of Eighth avenue, between Fourteenth and Twenty-second street,—or in other sections of New York. Here you will find well-cooked food, though the menu is limited to soup, chicken, spaghetti or vegetables, other a la carte foods. Breadsticks to munch with your soup and grated cheese to sprinkle over your spaghetti both offer something different than the American restaurants. These rotisserie eating places are inexpensive.

Buying Calories and Vitamines.

If you are so undernourished and dehumanized by modern dietetical information that you must find certain foodstuffs, of course you will go to one of the nationally-known Childs restaurants. Here everybody is at home, and calories and vitamines can be procured at so much a piece, by the dozen, or carload lots, with a check to pay as you leave for more than you had to eat. Unless you were satisfied, which you are, or you wouldn't go back again.

You will also find bakery and dairy restaurants, Italian restaurants, Hungarian restaurants, Vegetarian restaurants, and others, on all the cross-town streets in the center of New York. These places serve their purpose; some like one, some another.

Opposite the Metropolitan House entrance on the north is a unique German restaurant, one of the old landmarks of the city, where course dinners are served at night for 55 cents. Here you must take what is given you (no complaints received) and your lady companion is "not allowed to smoke," but the dinner is hearty, well-cooked, ample, and the place is always full of diners.

Where Diners Are Silent.

Down in the neighborhood of Bleecker street, opposite the famous Mills Hotel where rooms are procurable for a song and a few pennies, is a restaurant which offers course dinners for 35 cents or for 40 cents according to which one you might select in your pennilessness. Inside the room is filled with strange looking men, all silent, all eating as if their very life depended on it. They might be sailors from strange ports, or men from the underworld, or foreigners who must save their few pennies. To eat at one of the colorless wooden tables in this basement restaurant one needs first of all a great hunger, secondly a strong stomach, and these things seldom go together,—so few of the devotees to the art of eating in New York go to this particular place.

You might select any of the larger, swankish hotels in New York for your dining place, if you like those places to eat; many do; many desire expensive accoutrements, elaborate service, excellent food, for which they gladly pay additional costs.

Dabbling in Culinary Creations.

But no matter where you eat, you invariably come back again and again to your gas jets or your electric grill where you can conjure of fancy viands for the entertainment of your special friends. I take it that no person interested in the art of eating has not at some time found extra satisfactions in dabbling in the gentle art of culinary creations of his, or her, own. For this personalized sort of eating, New York also offers bountiful shops full of domestic and imported viands.

While many excellent and special places to eat in New York have been omitted in this article, the conclusion is reached that the most fastidious or careless, the most wealthy or poverty-stricken person can find New York the wonder-city of the world in which to eat.

Jailed By Mistake.

Chinese Farmers Encouraged.

And lots of Radios

Order the Christmas Radio Early

Santa Claus has sent through an S O S He says he's simply swamped with orders for all electric radios this year. Even with a trailer hooked to his sleigh he'll need extra help. That's why he urges everyone to put in orders as soon as possible so that no one will be disappointed. The new models have all the latest improvements and refinements. A single dial control and amazing selectivity characterize them. Mellow, full-throated tones fill the room where an electric radio is placed.

Lots and lots of electric radios are on the Christmas lists everywhere. Long winter evenings stretching ahead promise to be jolly where an all electric radio is left by Santa. Christmas cheer will re-echo through your house all year 'round with music and songs from the best programs on the air. If an electric radio is on your list you'll be getting a present of joy for years to come.

Clicquot Club Eskimos At Police Ball Friday

The famous Clicquot Club Eskimos, known to the radio fans as one of the finest orchestras on the air, will furnish music for dancing at the first annual ball of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association at the state armory on Friday evening. Harry Reser, director of the Eskimos, will act as master of ceremonies that evening and introduce the other radio artists who will appear at the hall. Maisenhelder's orchestra of this city will also furnish music for dancing that evening.

The Clicquot Club Eskimos broadcast regularly from the studios of the National Broadcasting Company, and the original unit of eleven members will be present at the police ball. Mr. Reser, the leader and organizer of the Eskimos, is a noted banjo player and was with Paul Whiteman's orchestra as banjo soloist. Returning with the Whiteman orchestra from Europe, Mr. Reser did a great deal of phonograph recording and then organized his now famous Eskimos.

The Eskimos have attained national prominence through their air programs, and the police feel that they have been fortunate in being able to engage the orchestra to furnish the music for their first ball.

In addition to the Eskimos the police have engaged the famous Smith Brothers, noted radio comedy team, to make a personal appearance and present some of the sketches for which they are noted over the air. Miss Gladys Rice, another widely known radio artist, will also be present and sing.

All indications point to the fact that the police ball will be one of the outstanding social events of the winter season, and the various committees in charge of the ball are working hard to make it both a social and financial success. The ball is being held for the benefit of the police pension fund.

Historic Ring Displayed

A ring presented by Robert Burns to Mary Campbell, the Highland Mary of his poems, was recently displayed by Alexander Baird, the owner, of Dunoon, Scotland. The ring, which is now rather thin, is of gold, and resembles a "keeper," being carved on the inside. The initials "M. C." can be distinctly seen. Mary Campbell was born at Auchamore, near Dunoon.

DECEMBER

There's a song—
Ting-a-ling—
In December air;
There's a tang—
Thang-a-lang—
That we welcome there.
For they live in memory a treasure store
With childhood bliss and—the Santa lore!

There's a song—
Ding dong—
On December's breeze—
There's a lilt—
Love built—
That can naught but please.
For down in the soul where the love fires burn
The joys of our bygone days return.

There's a hymn—
Lights dim!—
On the Yuletide night,
There's a gleam—
Dear dream!—
Of the window light.
But I cannot tell you the rest, for lo
It is not to say—it is just to know!

"Excuse me, madam, but do you mind coughing more quietly so that I may better be able to hear your friend read out the sub-titles?"

It takes a lot of chivalry to walk down the street and say that modern styles reveal "charm".

Winter Weather Wheezes.

Keep away from breezy people!
Those who coast also climb the hill.
Now that the swimmin' hole is frozen over we can skate.
Coaled fires are the hottest.
Confine your heated arguments to the janitor.

There are long freight trains, true enough, but none so long as the motorist makes out when telling us how he was held up at the crossing.

YOU

You are the fellow who has to decide
Whether you'll do it or toss it aside;
You are the fellow who makes up your mind
Whether you'll lead or will linger behind—
Whether you'll try for the good that's afar
Or be contented to stay where you are.
Take it or leave it. There's something to do!
Just think it over. It's all up to you.

Suitor: "Will you share my lot?"
Fair Layde: "It it's got a house on it. I'm not crazy about living in a tent."

We've heard of dancing, swimming, running, eating and sitting marathons, but as yet no one has suggested anything like a working marathon.

Famous Botanic Gardens

The Royal Botanic gardens of Kew (Surrey, Eng.) originated in the exotic garden formed by Lord Capel, to whom the estate belonged in the late Seventeenth and early Eighteenth centuries. In 1840 the gardens were adopted as a national establishment and now they consist of 75 acres, with the arboretum adjoining extending 270 acres.

To Get Rid of Moths

There are several methods that can be followed to get moths out of a fur collar. A simple one is to place the fur over a warm radiator or on the top of a lighted gas oven with a very low flame. The moths will come to the surface and may be brushed off. Place the garment in the sun for several days.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Celery values further slumped today in a weak and sluggish market. Arrivals were moderate, but the demand was less active. Up-state New York celery in the rough wholesaled at $2-$3 per two-thirds crate on the fair to good and 75c-$1.50 on poor to ordinary. California celery in large crates brought $5.50-$6.50 and some really fine stock reached $7.25.

During the previous week New York city received 141 carloads of celery, of which this state contributed 69, and California 67. The remainder originated in Oregon and New Jersey.

Despite the much lighter arrivals of string beans from Florida, there was no material advance in prices. The demand, however, was a trifle better, but only on fancy tender stock. Green varieties in 28-quart hampers peddled out at $1.50-$4.50 and the wax variety $2.50-$6. Lima beans from Cuba sold at $3-$6 a bushel hamper.

The demand for up-state New York white Danish cabbage was generally slow in a weaker market. Offerings in the bulk at railroad terminals in New York city and Brooklyn peddled out chiefly at $45 per ton. One year ago white cabbage realized $13-$16 per ton.

Receipts of state apples were limited. The undertone of the market was without decided change. The demand was confined to fancy fruit. Washington Spitzenberg apples in boxes jobbed out at $1.55-$3.25. Delicious ranged from $1.60-$3.40; Rome Beauties from $1.70-$2.40; and Montana McIntoshes sold at $1.35-$3.60 per box.

Supplies of iceberg lettuce from the West were rather liberal but the Big Boston variety from the South was limited. Owing to the great variation in quality, values ranged widely. California iceberg sold at $2-$5 per crate. Florida Big Boston brought $2-$3.50 per hamper.

Onion prices showed no important changes. Receipts were limited and trading was moderate. Sales on fair quality medium-sized yellows from the western part of the state were consummated at $3.65 per 100-pound sack. The finest stock from Colorado reached $4.90.

Women Fail to Supply Color

Silver Buckles on Mrs. Norton's Shoes Nearest Approach to Anything Bright in Wearing Apparel —Four Women Representatives in Congress.

Washington, Dec. 4 (A.P.)—Even the women members of the House have failed to supply a dash of color to the unusually somber setting surrounding the opening days of the last session of the seventieth congress.

In years gone by, that is since women were accorded an equal status with men in the political world, the dress of the feminine representatives nearly always has added a touch of brightness when everything else at the Capitol seemed submerged in gray.

The nearest approach to anything bright and lively for the opening day, yesterday, were the silver buckles on the shoes of Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, the only one of the four women to sit on the Democratic side of the aisle. But this was not all. The stained heels of her shoes were low—frankly for comfort—and her dress was without frills.

The other three women members, Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky, all were simply dressed in unrelieved black. All occupy Republican seats. Two of them, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Kahn, are filling posts held by their husbands before death.

Shortly it is expected a fifth woman, Mrs. William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, will be added to the women membership of the House. She has been designated by Arkansas Democrats for the place left vacant a few weeks ago by the death of her husband, who was the party's assistant leader.

When the new congress convenes, the ranks of the women members will be expanded. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, is a Republican representative-elect from Illinois, and Mrs. Ruth Pratt, a Republican leader in New York, is a representative-elect from that state.

Still another woman, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, is a Democratic representative-elect from that state. She, however, may have a fight on her hands as her Republican opponent has announced that he will contest for the seat.

OBJECTIVES

THE general who maneuvered his army so as to obtain general results would win few battles and gain little glory.

You remember that all the war dispatches dealt with objectives.

Some of them were attained and some were not.

But no important action was ever won without one.

In 1898, when two nations were at war, the admiral of one fleet was instructed to "capture or destroy" the vessels of the enemy.

He sailed on his mission knowing exactly what he had to do.

He planned not to cripple the enemy merely, or chase it from the port it was holding, but "to capture or destroy it." He destroyed part of it and captured the rest. He had accomplished his objective.

In the long, uncertain fight we call life, we are lost and hopeless without some more or less definite objective.

In the beginning few people are sure of what they want to do, or what they hope to do.

But the sooner they can be sure, the more likely they are to succeed. That is why a very decided taste for some particular occupation is a great advantage. But most people have no decided tastes, and must make up their minds as soon as possible where they want to go.

After that traveling arrangements can be made more definitely.

As civilization advances competition becomes keener, and success requires a great struggle.

The equipment of education is not as much of a help as it used to be, for there are more educated people in the world—more people who are specially trained for some definite calling.

So a fixed objective is more necessary than ever.

* * * * * * *

Thomas Edison, who recently attained his eightieth year, began life as a telegraph operator. He had worked at this calling but a little while before he became convinced that the possibilities of the mysterious current that carried messages were far greater than anyone supposed.

To develop these became his objective, and he not only attained it himself, but what was far more important he inspired thousands of other men to think about electricity and what it could do in harness, with the result that many inventions have been made which he never might have made himself.

It was early in life that Henry Ford determined to make an automobile which would be within the reach of people of modest circumstances. He devoted his entire life to that object. The fact that he made a billion doing it is incidental with him, for he is a man who needs but little money to enjoy life.

The work he did has been a far greater benefaction to the human race than would be the gift of all the money he has made.

Henry Fords and Thomas Edisons are not plentiful in the world, but there are few people who could not succeed to a greater extent than they do if they would decide on an objective and stubbornly work to gain it.

THINGS WORTH WHILE

WHEN one can purchase veal hearts and serve them sliced and fried in butter, they make a delectable dish. Another way is:

Veal Hearts en Casserole.

Fry four slices of bacon to a crisp, remove from the frying pan and add a small sliced onion. Trim and clean four veal hearts, slice them, roll in seasoned flour and fry them in the fat. Place the hearts in a hot casserole, add to the fat in the pan one cupful of vegetable water, meat stock or plain water, a minced pimento, a teaspoonful of salt, and half a bayleaf. Pour the mixture over the hearts and cook two hours. Five minutes before serving add the bacon.

Beef Steak a la Henriette.

Wipe a porterhouse steak, cut one and one-half inches in thickness, broil eight minutes, turning frequently. Pour one-half of the sauce on a hot platter, lay in the steak, cover with the remaining sauce and garnish with parsley and grated horseradish.

Sauce Henriette.

Wash one-half cupful of butter and divide into three parts. Put one piece in a saucepan with the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and mixed with one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of water. Set the saucepan into another of hot water and cook over the heat, stirring constantly until the butter is melted. Add a second piece of butter and when melted the third piece, then add two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree, one tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce, one-half tablespoonful of minced parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. This sauce should be perfectly smooth and of the consistency of boiled custard.

Coolidge Urges Naval Increase

disposed of by Mr. Coolidge in brief form:

"The country has duly adopted the eighteenth amendment," he said. "Those who object to it have the right to advocate its modification or repeal. Meanwhile it is binding upon the national and state governments and all our inhabitants."

As for enforcement he said the federal government "is doing and will continue to do all it can in this direction" and declared that the officials in Washington were entitled to the cooperation of the states.

The flood control, irrigation and domestic water purposes of the Boulder Canyon Dam project are phases into which the government could extend its functions, he said.

Only Production Limits Profits and Wages.

Addressing himself to the wage earner, Mr. Coolidge enunciated the doctrine of production as the only limit to profit and wages.

"In its economic life," he said, "our country has rejected the long accepted law of a limitation of the wage fund, which led to pessimism and despair because it was the doctrine of perpetual poverty, and has substituted for it the American conception that the only limit to profits and wages is production, which is the doctrine of optimism and hope because it leads to prosperity."

Peace in Foreign Field.

"In the foreign field there is peace, the good will that comes from mutual understanding, and the knowledge that the problems which a short time ago appeared so ominous are yielding to the touch of manifest friendship," he said.

The relations between the United States and Nicaragua, Chili, Peru, Mexico and China were dealt with separately by the President who also in his discussion of foreign affairs praised the purport of the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war. There was no mention of American adherence to the World Court.

Unremitting Toil Necessary.

The message was concluded with a plea to the people to remember that in times of prosperity unremitting toil is necessary to keep what has been gained.

"The country," Mr. Coolidge said, "is in the midst of an era of prosperity more extensive and of peace more permanent than it has ever before experienced. But, having this position, we should not fail to comprehend that it can easily be lost. It needs more effort for its support than the less exalted places of the world. We shall not be permitted to take our ease, but shall continue to be required to spend our days in unremitting toil.

Government Must Command Confidence.

"The actions of the Government must command the confidence of the country. Without this, our prosperity would be lost. We must extend to other countries the largest measure of generosity, moderation, and patience. In addition to dealing justly, we can well afford to walk humbly.

"The end of government is to keep open the opportunity for a more abundant life. Peace and prosperity are not finalities; they are only methods. It is too easy under their influence for a nation to become selfish and degenerate. This test has come to the United States. Our country has been provided with the resources with which it can enlarge its intellectual, moral, and spiritual life. The issue is in the hands of the people. Our faith in man and God is the justification for the belief in our continuing success."

2 Incorporations In Ulster County

Albany, Dec. 4—This year will witness the incorporation of the largest number of companies during any twelve month period in the history of New York state, according to an announcement made today by Robert Moses, secretary of state. This prediction is based on the fact that over a thousand more companies have incorporated during the first eleven months of this year than during a like period in 1927. December is always a heavy month in the state's corporation bureau and it is quite possible that over 26,000 companies will have incorporated by the end of this year. The incorporation of these companies has brought a resultant revenue to the Department of State, that runs into the millions.

In Ulster county two companies incorporated last month with a combined capitalization of $20,000.

FIND TRACE OF RACE THAT VANISHED 700 YEARS AGO

Minnesota Scientists Report Strange People Lived in Valley in New Mexico.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Evidence of the history of a race which lived in the Mimbres valley in New Mexico centuries ago, and which, as far as the evidence shows, apparently vanished about 700 years ago, was given by Dr. Albert E. Jenks, chairman of the department of anthropology at the University of Minnesota, in a lecture at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts recently.

Doctor Jenks reported to members of the institute on the findings of its expedition into the Mimbres valley last summer and which he headed.

The race studied is estimated to have lived in the valley from about the time of Christ until about 700 years ago.

Doctor Jenks told of the finding of beautiful pieces of pottery of strange design, of stone and adobe houses, built one layer upon another, and of peculiar burial customs.

"Nearly all of the pottery found in the excavations we made were 'kill' pieces," said Doctor Jenks. "That is, each one had a small hole broken into its bottom before being buried with a dead person.

"The name kill has been given these mutilated pieces because of the belief that the people who used them broke them to kill them so that the spirit of the vessel, supposedly the favorite of the person with whom it was buried, might leave the vessel at the same time the dead person's spirit left his body."

The bodies were found buried just below the adobe floors. In nearly every case a bowl, with its bottom punctured, was found placed over the cranial bones of the skeleton.

"Big Money" Finds Profit on Small Personal Loan

New York.—"Big money," which long has turned a cold shoulder to "little money," apparently has opened its eyes to the fact that the collection of a few dollars here and a few more there makes a sum quite worthy of consideration.

That may explain the sudden growth in the number and resources of companies loaning funds to wage earners. One concern alone is planning to put out $50,000,000 in such loans next year, and there are dozens of others ready to do a similarly extensive business. Then there are numerous banks inviting the borrowing of small but necessary sums on good collateral.

Much of the small-loan business, however, probably will be done by companies making loans under the uniform small-loan law affecting sums below $300. With interest rates on personal loans averaging 3 per cent a month, millions of dollars passing over their counters, such companies evidently see a good opportunity to turn little money into big without undue risk.

"Ocean" in Kansas Defies All Soundings

Cawker City, Kan.—There is a bit of "ocean" near the geographical center of the United States.

On top of a conelike hill three miles east of this northern Kansas town is a pool of salt water, some 30 feet in diameter and so deep that not even a sea diver has been able to find its bottom.

It is known as Waconda springs, "Waconda," being an Indian word meaning "the great spirit." A century ago Indians worshiped at the place and they believed the water to have medicinal qualities.

The hill where the water is found rises fifty or sixty feet above the surrounding terrain. It is believed by some persons to have been a small volcano, smothered by subterranean connection with an ocean.

Some geologists, however, have expressed the opinion the "spring" was a geyser that cooled off and settled down. The water never freezes and it keeps the same level in wet and dry seasons. It has a marine odor and color.

Deepest Well Produces Scientific Data, Not Oil

Titusville, Pa.—Three years to the day after the well was spudded at La Mont, a few miles south of Kane, the deep test well of the United Natural Gas company is 7,907 feet deep. This makes it the deepest ten-inch well in the world, but so far the well has produced nothing but scientific data.

The well was drilled for that purpose, however, and consequently the backers are not disappointed over the failure to make a strike. Rumors are current that if any trouble develops in the future drilling operations will stop.

Monument Is "Accidental."

Manchester, Tenn.—This town has an "accidental" monument. It is an old iron safe dragged from the post office by a guerrilla band during the closing days of the Civil war.

It has remained approximately where they left it ever since.

One in Four a Reader.

Melbourne, Australia.—The chief librarian of New South Wales told a recent interstate educational conference in Melbourne university that not one Australian in four ever read a book.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—A brisk rally in stock market prices, which carried a long line of issues up one to four points and a few specialties up five to 21 points, was checked this afternoon by a return of the 10 per cent call money rate. Early gains were reduced and several representative shares, such as General Motors, U. S. Steel Common, and Hudson Motors, were carried below last night's final quotations.

The market bounded upward at the opening in apparent disregard of the staggering increase in brokers' loans, although several commission houses interpreted the gain as an indication of heavy distribution. The recovery gained momentum on the publication of President Coolidge's message to Congress, which recommended legislation to facilitate railroad consolidation and stressed the prosperity of the country, and by a series of favorable dividend announcements.

Radio was the spectacular feature, soaring 21 points to 395, or within 5 points of the recent record high, but it slipped below 390 in the early afternoon selling. Wright Aeronautical lost all its early gain of 6½ points and Kennecott, Columbia Graphophone, and Yellow Truck sold 2 to 3 points below Monday's final prices.

In the early upswing, National Supply, Gold Dust, Columbia Carbon, Atlas Powder and Allis Chalmers ran up 4 to nearly 8 points to new high records. Foundation Co., National Biscuit, International Harvester, Union Carbide, Victor Talking Machine and International Telephone also sold 4 to 7 points higher.

Missouri Pacific preferred climbed 2 points to a new high at 126⅞ on the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 and an extra of $1.50 to be applied to the accumulation of back dividends.

Chesapeake and Ohio ran up more than 4 points to a new 1928 high at 210⅝ on the apparent withdrawal of opposition to the purchase of a controlling interest in Pere Marquette. Boston and Maine also touched a new top, and there was a good demand for Kansas City Southern, Union Pacific, Reading and New York Central before the afternoon selling started.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, advanced to 9 and thence to 10 as banks called about $40,000,000 in loans. Reports that the Federal Reserve banks were restricting the purchase of acceptances and that new gold recently arriving here was being ear-marked to prevent its use as a basis for an inflation of credit also had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment.

Indictments for Maintaining Stills

Seizures by Local Dry Agents in Town of Shawangunk, Columbia and Orange Counties Followed by Indictments in Federal Court.

Arthur H. Swartz, assistant U. S. Attorney, announced that the U. S. grand jury for the Southern district of New York handed down Monday afternoon before Judge Warren Burrows three indictments involving the maintenance of large stills.

One indictment charges that Vicenzo Pisciotta, 228 North 5th street, Greenpoint, N. Y.; John Palazola, 224 Avenue A, New York; Natali Galati, 22 Union street, Brooklyn, and Frank Fazio, 102 North 6th street, Brooklyn, did maintain a 3,000 gallon still at Pine Bush, town of Shawangunk, Ulster county, N. Y. Mr. Schwartz said that a large seizure was made on these premises, and the defendants were charged not only with violating the national prohibition act but also with violation of the internal revenue statutes. The property seized in connection with this still was valued at over $20,000.

Another indictment charges James Orak, 70 St. John's Place, New Rochelle, N. Y., Joseph Buccina, 27 First street, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Nicholas Furore, 359 Fifth avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Joseph Latassa and Harry Lombardo, 155 Lark street, Albany, N. Y., with maintaining four 500 gallon copper stills at Riders Mills, Columbia county, N. Y.

Another indictment charges that the defendants, Ima Cohen, 300 Cherry street, New York; George Welch, 135 Parker avenue, Passaic, N. J.; Benjamin Weiner, Woodridge, N. J.; Harry Cohen, Sr., 35 Hammond street, Passaic, N. J.; Andrew Richardson, 135 Parker avenue, Passaic, N. J.; Louis Cohen, 4 Tulip street, Passaic, N. J.; Harry Cohen, Jr., Florida, N. Y.; Samuel Cohen, Florida, N. Y. and Otto Gorish, did manufacture a large quantity of alcohol and possess a 2,000 gallon copper still at "The Old Mill," located in Florida, N. Y. Mr. Schwartz pointed out that Otto Gorish was the owner of the premises and that the indictment is an indication of what may happen to owners of premises where such owners, aware of a violation of law, permit others to continue uninterruptedly in their operations.

These cases were made through agents operating out of the Kingston office of Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell.

Northcott Tells Of Many Killings

Police Announce He Made a Signed Confession of the Murder of Alvin Gothea and That He Related an Incoherent Story of Eight More Murders.

Riverside, Cal., Dec. 4 (AP).—Gordon Stewart Northcott's reported confession that nine boys were mistreated and slain on the Northcott "murder farm" near here, and that he himself committed five of the murders, today sent prosecuting authorities on an intensive hunt for corroborating evidence.

Taken from the jail in Los Angeles yesterday to the scene of the alleged crimes on his promise that he "might" lead officers to the spot where evidence of the killing existed, investigators announced Northcott made a signed confession of the murder of Alvin Gothea, a Mexican youth.

They said he then related a somewhat incoherent story of the murder of eight other small boys on or near the farm, in four of which he was the killer. His victims, he said, were Gothea, Walter Collins, Louis Winslow, a boy named Richard and a youth whose name he did not know.

Northcott told the officers that he had erected an improvised altar at the ranch and that he had forced his victims to say prayers before killing them. He said he cried as he and young Clark buried Walter Collins. He accused young Clark of also mistreating the victims.

Three Killed, Two Injured in Fires

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—Three persons were killed, two injured and the lives of hundreds of others endangered early today in three separate fires believed to be the work of a pyromaniac.

In the first fire, in a tenement house on East 14th street, two waitresses and the fiance of one of them were suffocated when the fire "mushroomed" through the five-story structure, trapping them in a room on the fifth floor.

Shortly afterwards fires were discovered in baby carriages and among rubbish in hallways of tenements on East 15th and East 14th streets. These fires were extinguished without difficulty but hundreds of tenants were routed from their beds in their night clothes.

Fire marshals and detectives believe that the fires were set by one person.

The dead were the Misses Mary Bezeda and Betty Collinben, both 23 years old and both employed as waitresses, and William L. Andre, 30, a salesman. The two girls occupied a room on the top floor of the house. Their bodies were found beneath the covers on the bed while that of Andre was in a chair. The flames did not enter the room and firemen said the intense heat probably caused their deaths.

Andre was engaged to marry Miss Collinben.

Mr. and Mrs. Trifonia Nicassia, who occupied an apartment on another floor in the building where three met death, were severely burned.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

FUR FASHIONS BOWS, BAGS, BONNETS AND BARREL MUFFS.

New York—Fortunately fashion is not insistent on costly furs, for apparently she is insistent on quantity if not quality. With hats and purses both being made of fur, and with even shoes fashioned of calf and pony skin, it looks as though the woman of the land would be protected from the cold—at any cost.

The placement of fur trimmings above the edge of the sleeve, even at the elbow, gives one more of an incentive for carrying a tiny barrel muff in which it has once more become the fashion to bury one's fingers. Cumbersome cuffs and huge muffs are not a happy blend, and designers realizing that it is time to welcome the muff back to the fold have obligingly elevated sleeve trimmings. It is really the uses to which furs are put, and the manner in which they are disguised that makes for the greatest interest this season.

Fur purses are a happy thought since one is never quite at peace with a fur coat and leather bag unless it be suede or antelope, both materials which are costly and perishable albeit desirable in other ways. The several flat furs momentarily in use are applicable to many accessories including envelope and other bags and of course to hats.

While white furs lead for evening, daylight preferences are inclined to greys and beige with of course many browns, the smartest being beaver. So many women find light furs flattering that the reign of the dark, light furred coat seemed in no danger of ending. Extremely smart tweed suit ensembles, cleverly banded with beaver are sponsored by the smart.

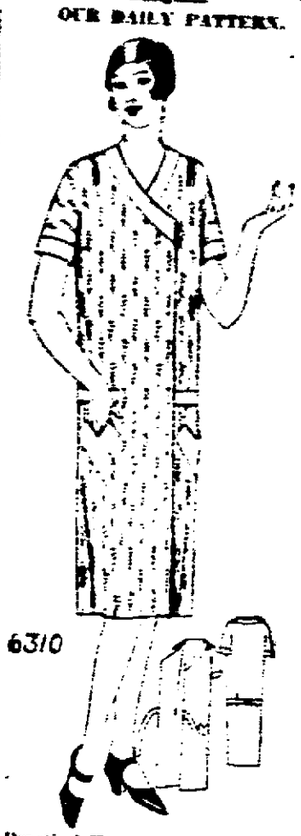
OUR DAILY PATTERN.



A Practical House or Morning Frock for Mature Figures With Slender Hips.

6310. Cotton prints, foulard, madras or broadcloth, or pongee, linen or tub silk are all excellent materials for this design. The closing is reversible, so that the right or left front may be overlapped. The sleeves are cut in one with the body portions. Small inverted tucks add fulness to the fronts at the shoulders. A shaped pocket and neck and sleeve facings form an effective trimming. Belt sections are slipped through openings in the fronts, and hold the fulness at the back.

The pattern for this model is cut in 9 sizes: 36, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54 inches bust measure. A 46 inch size requires 4¾ yards of 27 inch material together with ⅞ yard of contrasting material for facing at neck and sleeve edges, and on the belt and pockets. The widtn of the dress at the lower edge with the overlapping portions extended is about 2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hope, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's fame."—ARTHUR SKILES, 225 N. Keeler Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Where does that delicious flavor come from?

What makes some baked foods taste so much better than others? Ask the wise old cook—she'll tell you this finer flavor comes from Pillsbury's Best Flour, because Pillsbury's Best is made only from certain kinds of carefully selected, full-flavored wheat.

Ask the food editors of women's magazines—women who have studied baking all their lives. Yellow Jackets May Decide to Play More Games

Whether the football season will be prolonged in Kingston is to be decided at a meeting of the Yellow Jackets tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the office of Manager George Brooks, 260 Fair street. Every player is requested to attend the meeting for a game will be booked with a West Point team, likely the Artillery, if the Jackets wish to go on playing. The Artillery, who beat Kingston in the locals' opening game, is strong for another tilt with Coach Preston's men.

The Yellow Jackets went through a season up until this date, that every player and follower of the local gridders can be proud of. The Kingston boys met some stiff opposition, stronger than in any previous year since their organization, and out of 12 games played lost but four and played one tie.

Much credit belongs to Managers George Brooks and Ray Craft, who scoured far and near to get real good teams to oppose the Yellow Jackets. Their work was successful and fans were much pleased with the matches they made for the Jackets.

Then, too, Coach Carl Preston, who surely does know his football, deserves a great deal of praise for the way he developed the Yellow Jackets. He went to work with practically a green team, as far as the line was concerned, and this portion of the eleven is one of the strongholds of a winning team, and made a bunch of good football players out of the material. Of course the men had football in them and a will to play without which success would not have been accomplished.

Coach Preston's line showed their ability in outclassing the West Point Service Club Sunday at the Kingston Fair Grounds. The men formed a veritable stone wall on the defense and when it came to playing offensively they gave Preston's backfield sterling support.

Captain Joe Hoffman, who proved efficient in his official capacity as well as a ball carrier, hopes that every player will be on deck for tonight's meeting.

An Even Dozen Undefeated Teams

(By The Associated Press)

Barring further complications, the country will be able to point with pride to an even dozen undefeated football elevens when the last touchdown has been made this season.

Florida, highest scoring machine in the country, has yet to dispose of Tennessee at Knoxville next Saturday while Georgia Tech, after battling Georgia this week, has a New Year's engagement to keep at Pasadena with the University of California. All the rest of the football fortunate have closed their seasons. While a dozen teams have escaped defeat so far only five can say they haven't been tied either. The south has three of these in Florida, Georgia Tech and Emory and Henry. The mid-west has Detroit and Boston College is the east's nominee.

The records of the leading undefeated teams follow:

Team	Won	Tied	Pts. Against	Pts. For
Boston College	9	0	29	256
Detroit	9	0	29	256
Florida	8	0	31	324

Wild Bull Pampas Is Returning to the Ring

Louis Angel Firpo, who fought Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship, ended a three-year retirement by resuming public training for a proposed return to the ring.

The erstwhile "Wild Bull of the Pampas," weighing a modest 230, punched the bag, shadow boxed, and tussled with three sparring partners.

"I weighed about this much after several months of private training," Firpo explained. "I was this heavy when I fought Spalla back in 1925."

The big Argentine boxer said he would attempt to reduce further, and would come to the United States next March or April if able to achieve a satisfactory condition.

Firpo maintains a coy silence as to his intention of joining the competition for the championship vacated by Gene Tunney.

Action Delayed on New Golf Ball Until 1930

The United States Golf association is experimenting with golf balls of various sizes and weights with the intention of producing a better ball for all-around tournament play, but no change is contemplated before 1930, if then, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the association, reports.

Experiments were started following another outburst of criticism that the present regulation ball was too lively and that long-distance hitters like Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen had too much of an advantage over specialists in iron play during the championship tournaments.

The U. S. G. A. plans to make the golf ball a trifle larger and somewhat lighter if any change is made at all, Traylor said.

Ed. Messinger On 1928 All-Eastern Football Team

By Brian Bell
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—Less differences of opinion than had been the case in other years was expressed in the consensus of two score experts who assisted The Associated Press in the selection of the 1928 All-Eastern football team. Sports writers and coaches who picked the All-Stars in the east were agreed largely on a majority of the positions.

Only one selection failed to include the elusive Christian Keener Cagle, the Army halfback, and only two could not see Kenneth Strong, the fleet and powerful New York University star as a member of the backfield. Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's sure passer and field general, ran far ahead in the vote for quarterback, and Paul Scull, Pennsylvania's versatile captain, maintained a commanding lead for the fullback position. Scull and Strong were given votes for both the halfback and fullback places.

Chuck Howe, Princeton's great captain, was never in danger of being crowded out for center, for less than half a dozen experts overlooked him.

Ned Burke won a guard position for the Navy by a wide margin, but Bruce Dumont of Colgate was hard pressed by "Firpo" Greene of Yale and Captain Carroll of Georgetown.

Two captains, Al Lassman, of the New York University, and Bud Sprague, of the Army, ran well ahead of their rivals for tackle positions, with Mooney, of Georgetown, a clever kicker, a good third.

Rosenzweig, Carnegie Tech end, was well in front for his place, with Ed Messinger, of Army, lacking the Skibo's popularity but leading Barrabee of N. Y. U., and Stinson of Princeton, who qualified for the second team. Lawler of Princeton and Provincial of Georgetown were barely nosed out.

Consensus selections:

First Team.

L. E., Rosenzweig, Car. Tech.
L. T., Sprague, Army.
L. G., Burke, Navy.
R. G., Howe, Princeton.
R. G., Dumont, Colgate.
R. T., Lassman, N. Y. U.
R. E., Messinger, Army.
Q. B., Harpster, Car. Tech.

F. B., Scull, Pennsylvania.

Second Team.

L. E., Barrabee, N. Y. U.

Coach Stagg Will Not Retire

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP).—"Retire? Absurb! I'm a young man!"

This is what Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg, the "Grand Old Man" of football, told The Associated Press today in answer to the persistent rumors that he planned to call it a day—his last day—on the gridiron.

"Why, I'm only 66", Stagg chuckled. "I haven't missed a day's practice in years. I've got as much pepper and vigor in me as any young coach I know. Ask my boys if I've still got the spirit and fire necessary to coach a football team. Retire? I've been on the job for 37 years, and I feel as though I've got 37 more years left in me."

That is the way the "old man" feels about it. And that's the way his legions of friends and admirers, in the sport and out of it, wherever football is played, feel about it.

"Chicago has just completed the most disastrous football season in its history", Stagg admitted. "And the prospects do not look good for next year's team. We haven't the material at Chicago. We never shall have, as long as our entrance requirements and eligibility requirements are so nigh. I have known scores of great college athletes who wanted to play football for Chicago—but they went to other schools because they could not get in at Chicago, or because they could not stay in."

Stagg refused to express his opinion on the university's scholastic requirements — the secondary school average of 85, for instance. As long as he is a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago, he promises to be loyal to its standards and regulations.

So Stagg is not going to retire. How can he, he asks, with his 18-year-old son, Paul, a prospective football player? He'll have to keep right on the job, Coach Stagg says, 'because if I lie down, my boy might take a notion to do the same thing—and then I'd be out one football player."

Paul Stagg won his numerals this season as quarterback on the freshman team, and shows signs of duplicating his father's great athletic career.

Painter Ready for "Mule" Brown

West Pointer Training Hard For New York Colored Boy—Painter Expects to Live in Kingston.

According to word from West Point, Gene Painter, regular army scrapper, who is connected with the McCabe-Conway National Guard stable in Kingston, is in the pink of condition for his coming fistic argument with "Mule" Brown of the 369th Infantry at the local armory on Monday night, December 10.

Painter is said to be an enthusiastic trainer. In fact, he assumes this spirit in whatever he undertakes and does plenty of work at the Point to keep in shape. He is a member of the artillery and anyone familiar with this branch of the government service knows that there is plenty to keep one busy. The work he does is of a variety that is good for the muscles.

Of course, every man in Uncle Sam's army has time to play and Painter uses these surplus hours to train. As government bulletins show, plenty of equipment is furnished soldiers for athletic training and the scrappers at West Point make good use of this. Painter also has plenty of good boys to work out against at the army post, which keeps him in good boxing trim. Joe Starr, one of the hardest punchers ever seen in a Kingston ring, who is also being handled by McCabe and Conway, is among the boys that Painter trains with.

The West Point soldier is considering the fight game as a means of livelihood in the future for his time will soon be up at the post. He expects to come to Kingston to live for several months during which time Manager Conway contemplates keeping him busy with fights around the Metropolis.

However, Painter will have to show up well against "Mule" Brown next Monday night in order to impress Jimmy Ambrose, matchmaker of the National Guard, if he intends to do much fighting in the army rings during the coming months. Guard boxers are getting higher in calibre every year and right now some of the best scrappers in New York are doing their turn in soldier boxing circles.

"Mule" Brown is a highly rated colored scrapper with a dynamic wallop—incidentally that is the factor which gave him the title "Mule" —who has stepped with some of the best and had little trouble with the hard punching Stanley Stevens at Newburgh several weeks ago.

Other fights on Monday's card also promise plenty of action and Captain E. C. Lawson, local man in charge of the fistic entertainments at the armory, advises all who desire good seats to make reservations at the armory early. This may be done by telephone.

Sunday School League Games

The following Sunday School League basketball games will be played at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night:

Presbyterians vs. St. Johns at 8 o'clock.

Trinity vs. Congregational at 10 o'clock.

MARGARETVILLE PLAYS CHANDLERS TONIGHT

The Chandlers will do their prettiest in a basketball game with the Margaretville quintet at the Y. M. C. A. court tonight. The tilt is scheduled for 9 o'clock and is expected to be a fast exhibition that will be watched by a large assemblage of fans. Previous to this game, at 8 o'clock, the Y's Men and Excelsiors will stage a preliminary tilt.

Coach Frank N. "Pop" Hinds, who keeps his Chandlers well versed in the court game, has the automobile team set for a win tonight. The locals know Margaretville and have their plans of attack mapped for the their plans. SEVEN GEORGIA FOOTBALL PLAYERS ILL WITH INFLUENZA

Athens, Ga., Dec. 4 (AP).—Seven varsity players and two coaches of the University of Georgia football team were ill today with influenza, four days before the team is to meet their ancient rival, Georgia Tech., at Atlanta.

H. J. Stegeman, track coach, directed the practice yesterday of the few remaining members of the varsity squad. Doubt has been generally expressed that any of the men will be sufficiently recovered by Saturday to enter the game.

Room for All

Harvard astronomers, after six years of careful "photometric" measurements have let a tuck out of the universe and report it to be a thousand times bigger than has been supposed. There is room for all, apparently, and places to go to whenever we are crowded or starved off the earth.

Dislike for Cobb and Speaker

HATRED for Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker that has smoldered for years in the west, and that broke out in a consuming fire in the last series of the season, cost the Athletics any chance they might have had to win the American league pennant for the year 1928.

So strong was the dislike—or, to use the stronger word, hate—for both these veterans in New York, Detroit, St. Louis and Cleveland that the players on all these teams banded together to kill off the Mackmen, if such could be the case.

This is the amazing story that came out of a parley between players and newspaper men just before the gang trekked westward for the Missouri end of the world's series. It all came about through an innocent question raised by yours truly, writes Gordon Mackay in the Philadelphia Record. The query in brief was this:

"What happened to the Athletics in the final series in the west?"

"I'll tell you," spoke up a veteran writer from Detroit who has been engaged in baseball writing for almost twenty years.

"The clubs in the west so hated Cobb and Speaker that they determined not to let them into a world series. And they all wanted Connie Mack to win, too.

"Take our club. While the Yankees were out in front by thirteen and a half games and it looked all over little attention was paid to the Athletics by any club. But when the Macks came west with a chance to win the pennant, I know that players on our team vowed that they would never let Ty Cobb get into another world's series if they could help it.

"They were keyed up to lick the Athletics and not even give them a thing. That's the reason they grabbed two of the games from them. Then they turned around, and while they played to win they just ran out their string against the Yankees."

"Put St. Louis in the same boat, voiced a writer of years of experience in the Missouri metropolis. "Maybe that Detroit alumni on our club didn't go strong. Manush, Manush, Lu Blue—I wish you could have heard those babies talk about Cobb getting into the series.

"I know that they played their heads off to beat the Athletics, and all the while they were sorry that Connie Mack wasn't going to get into it. For everybody thinks the world of Connie."

"Now let me say a word," chipped in one of the New York writers. "You should hear the Yankees talking about the pennant. It's too late to fool anybody now, but there was a time when the Yanks thought they would miss out on the rag.

"'Gee,' several of them told me, 'I'd like to see Connie in a series, but those other two birds, Cobb and Speaker, it sure would make me mad to see them in there.'"

"What caused this intense feeling against them?" we asked this Manhattan scribe.

"Darned if I know," he answered, "except that it has been gathering over a string of years. There are several other birds on the Athletics that our club hasn't much use for and they pan them when they have a chance. But Cobb and Speaker were the boys who got the razzberries right along.

Tris Speaker.

Goes With Glenna

Miss Marion Hollins, former national golf champion, who with the present champion, Miss Glenna Collett, will represent the United States in next year's Ladies' Golf Championship of Great Britain at St. Andrews, Scotland.

Ruth Started Yankees on Big Winning Streak

Miller Huggins pointed out recently that it is difficult to keep up an aggressive spirit in a team that has a long lead.

In 1927 the Yankees were 11 games in front on July 5. They appeared to have the pennant cinched. Then they slumped.

Huggins became worried, but George Herman Erhardt Ruth supplied a solution. Ruth decided that with the pennant safely won for the Yankees he could step out and win some individual honors for himself and he went after the home run record. Ruth started clouting home runs with a thrilling regularity and the Yankees fell right into line. Behind Ruth's slugging the entire team began slugging with the result that the Yankees made a runaway race of it. They won the pennant by 19 full games.

University of Iowa Is to Build New Stadium

The University of Iowa will have a new stadium, designed to seat from 60,000 to 80,000 persons, according to plans announced by Paul E. Belting, director of physical education. Probable cost of the plant was not mentioned.

The new athletic council, with the new alumni representatives attending, unanimously authorized Doctor Belting to proceed with plans for erection of the stadium, which, it was hoped, would be completed for the next homecoming grid game. The recommendations will be submitted to the state board of education and, if accepted, work will start immediately.

The stadium would be located on land west of the field house, and a baseball field and an outdoor track will be included.

Senior League Games Monday

In the Senior League games played at the Y. M. C. A. court Monday night, team No. 6 beat team No. 4, 27-22; team No. 1 was defeated by team No. 3, 25 to 19, and quintet No. 5 took over team No. 2, 18-15. Teams No. 6 and No. 5 entered the league Monday night and they both came out victors.

In the first tilt team No. 6 started early and led the way for No. 4 throughout the contest. At half time the score was 12-4. In the second period the No. 4 team did most of its scoring but they couldn't hold their opponents and the consequence was that they were behind when the final whistle blew, the score being 27-22.

Team No. 1 was beaten by team No. 3 in the fastest game of the night. Team No. 1 got the jump in the first half, the score being 9-3 at the end of the period, but in the second session the score was tied and broken many times before the final whistle sounded. In the last quarter team No. 3 scored plenty and at the same time played a good defensive game and it was this type of basketball that won the game for them. The final score was 25 to 19.

The last battle was very interesting for the onlookers. At no time throughout the first three quarters did either team hold the lead by a safe margin. The score at the half was 10 to 7 in favor of team No. 5. It was in the last few minutes of the last quarter that Bruck broke a 14-14 tie in favor of No. 5 and another field goal saved the game for Captain Fein's No. 5 team. The final tally was 18 to 16.

Wall Paper French Idea

The making of wall paper, in its origin, was a characteristically Parisian craft. It began at the end of the Sixteenth century with the making of marbled or illuminated papers used to line small boxes or chests, and later these were used for decorating walls.

FARM STOCK

INSURE SPRING CROP OF LAMBS

A great deal of the success with the lambs in the spring depends on the feed and care given the ewes during the winter.

If ewes are to develop good lambs they must have good feed and plenty of exercise. This does not mean that they should be fat. The aim should be to keep them in good thrifty condition. If plenty of roughage is available the ewes, as a rule, will not need grain feed until about six weeks before lambing. Alfalfa hay is one of the best feeds for breeding ewes, writes Turner Wright in the Iowa Homestead. The clover hays are also good and should be used when alfalfa is not available, or they can be mixed with the alfalfa to very good advantage. The use of corn stover or sorghum and similar fodders will help to lower the cost of the winter keep, but as these feeds supply only a small amount of growth materials the ewes should not be forced to subsist on them alone as weak lambs will likely be the result. Used in connection with alfalfa or one of the clover hays, however, they make a very good winter ration.

Watch the flock closely, and if any of the ewes begin to get thin in flesh, start feeding those ewes a small amount of grain each day. All the ewes in the flock ought to be put on a light grain feed about six weeks before lambing. About a half pound a day of a mixture of about two-thirds oats and one-third corn or barley for each ewe is very good for the grain ration. If one is fortunate enough to have a good wheat or rye pasture available, the ewes should have access to it at all times when weather conditions will permit. No other winter feed gives quite such good results.

A supply of good water at all times is an important consideration. If the water can be heated in very cold weather just enough to remove the chill, it will be better for the ewes. Many sheepmen make the mistake of housing their flock too closely in tight barns during the winter. A good dry place is all that is needed. It is very important to keep sheep from getting wet in the winter. A mature sheep does not need much protection from the cold as its fleece will keep it warm enough. A good shed, open to the south, will serve the purpose of winter shelter very well.

Distemper Is Disease Common Among Horses

Distemper is a disease common in colts and young horses. It is caused by pus-producing germs which usually gain entrance into the upper air passages and cause inflammation and discharge. From the upper air passages they are transferred to the kernels under the jaw and these kernels become the seat of an abscess. The germs, however, may enter through wounds or even through the walls of the intestines or other mucous membranes. For this reason colts never should be castrated when they are exposed to distemper infection.

Distemper usually is confined to mucous membranes of the nose and throat and the other lymph nodes belonging to these parts. The disease usually runs its course in two or three weeks. In some cases, however, infection becomes localized in other parts of the body and may cause abscesses on the belly or the chest. Tendon sheaths or joints also may become infected and skin eruptions may even make an appearance. Cases in which there are abscesses in inaccessible places are practically hopeless. Animals which recover seldom regain their full measure of health.

Polluted Water Will Disseminate Germs

Polluted drinking water is one of the surest means of disseminating disease germs and internal parasites in live stock. Surface water contaminated with body waste of animals is one of the great sources of disease.

A good supply of pure water should be provided. However, this is only a half step in the right direction. Before this safe water supply can be effective it is necessary to remove all opportunity for animals to drink from polluted water such as may be found in wagon ruts, tracks and other depressions. Yards should be adequately drained and holes or bogs should be fenced off to keep stock from drinking from them.

A water supply never is better than the worst which the animals have access to. Only when it is impossible for animals to get contaminated water can the stockman reap the benefit of a safe water supply.

Strong Young Boar

The young boar should show masculinity. He should have a strong, well arched back, well-sprung ribs, and a good covering of flesh. The skin should be free from wrinkles. Of particular importance is the quality of bone and the conformation of the feet and legs. The legs should be well set on short, straight, strong pasterns.

The boar is half the herd with respect to transmission of heritable characters from the parents to offspring.

Jacobean Furniture

The Jacobean period was the period of James I and II, and lasted from 1602-1688. Mahogany was rarely used for furniture at this time, most of the pieces being made of oak and walnut. The latter was the more popular.

OLD CLOTHES DANCE CREATES MERRIMENT

Fun galore was had at the old clothes dance of Kingston Post, American Legion, held in the Memorial Building, West O'Reilly street, Monday night. The hall was crowded with legionnaires and friends, garbed in the most antique costumes that could lay hands on, who complimented Jerry Martin, post activities chairman, on the wonderful evening he planned and assured him that they would attend the next like event he sponsored.

Prizes were given for the lady's most attractive antique costume and the gentleman's most comical outfit. Mrs. Edward Luedtke, wife of the popular Legion troop scoutmaster, took the lady's prize with a costume that was the rage many years ago. Walter Ostrander, local clothier, took the gentleman's prize. His outfit, which was termed "a scream", would be hard to describe for it embodied the outstanding characteristics of nearly every popular screen comedian.

Costume judges, who had a hard time picking the prize winners, were Ben Suskind, Ralph Fredenburgh and James McCarthy. The prizes consisted of two patron tickets to the police ball to be held in the armory on Friday evening, December 7.

Music was furnished by John P. Erne's orchestra, members of which dressed to fit the occasion. Pete Boice with his accordion also made many dancers merry with square dances. Refreshments were enjoyed.

Boy Scout Leaders Discuss Campaign

Deputy Chief Scout Executive Fisher Points Out Aims of Organization At Opening of County-Wide Financial Campaign.

A representative group of men from over the county who are interested in putting across the Boy Scout financial campaign held a very enthusiastic meeting in the Advance Restaurant Monday evening. The majority of the towns where Scout Troops were stationed were represented. Fred S. Van Voorhis, president of the Ulster County Council, presided. The Rev. A. S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, offered prayer. After partaking of a very delicious chicken dinner, Mr. Van Voorhis introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. George F. Fisher, deputy chief Scout executive of the country.

Dr. Fisher chose for his subject "Ten Points of a Program for Boys" and impressed upon the minds of those present that it is a wonderful work in which to be engaged, that of directing the activities of growing boys during the plastic years. Some of the points which Dr. Fisher stressed were that such a program must be one of boy interests; teaching the boy the things he likes to do. It must come out of the life of the boy. Such a program must train a lad in character development—instill in him such sterling qualities as integrity, honesty and purity. It must be a program for all boys, high and low, rich and poor. It must be prevocational. It must help a boy find himself. Selection of his vocation is all important. The program should strengthen a lad in his morals and idealism. It must buttress him in fundamental convictions. The program must anchor the boy in his own home. It must train a lad in citizenship. Such a program is that of the Boy Scouts of America. The address was greatly appreciated by those present.

E. H. Bogart was called on and said that the aim of the campaign was to raise funds to make possible the program that Dr. Fisher had so ably outlined. He spoke optimistically of the outcome of the campaign.

A. J. Burns was the next speaker and told of how the county had been organized and that the only thing needed to make the campaign a success is for all to enter enthusiastically into the work of soliciting, realizing that it is a worthy cause.

Too short for a bathing suit—must be a dress.

Arctic Weather Grips Montana

Denver, Dec. 4 (AP). — Arctic weather, first of the season, which has gripped Montana with sub-zero temperatures, spread east and southward today, bringing promise of stinging cold to Colorado and western plains states.

The lowest reported Montana reading was 26 degrees below zero at Lewiston. The frigid weather hit that state yesterday, carrying the temperature to 28 below at Moore, 22 below at Chinook, and 6 below at Billings.

Snow followed a 24-hour drop in temperature in Kansas, the fall extending as far as Kansas City.

Poet's Lyric Tribute to Queen of Beauty

Julian Hawthorne saw a great deal of Joaquin Miller, the "Poet of the Sierras," when both were living in London years ago, a writer in the Kansas City Times tells us. Once at a garden party at which Little Isangry—then in the first bloom of her beauty—was the center of attraction, Hawthorne introduced the poet to the ravishing Jersey Lily.

"I left them talking prosperously," relates Hawthorne in his reminiscences, "Shapes That Pass." "But Joaquin came hastening after me in a few moments.

"'Have you got a bit of paper?' he asked. 'I have a pencil; she wants me to write her a lyric'

"I found an old envelope in my pocket," adds Julian, "he seized it, and squatted down on the turf, where I left him scribbling and went back to keep Lillie till he was ready. It seemed hardly five minutes before he came stalking toward us smiling in his yellow beard and waving the envelope."

And here is the lyric. Hawthorne says he does not think it has been in print till now:

If all God's earth a garden were,
And all the women flowers,
And I a bee that buzzed there
Through all the summer hours,
Oh, I would buzz the garden through
For honey—till I came to you!

Indians Good Swimmers.

The Bureau of American Ethnology says that the Indians were remarkable swimmers and some of the tribes were in the water as much as were the primitive Polynesians. They swam six or seven different ways, including treading water, and would dive to the bottom of deep water. A common institution among the Indians was the sweat bath. They would sweat in a specially constructed sweathouse, which was closed up to keep the heat in, and when they thought they had sweated enough would suddenly run outdoors, giving warwhoops, throw themselves into the cold water, and after a while re-enter the sweathouse to dry off, since they had no towels.

The Lombards.

Lombard street, the principal bank quarter of the city of London, takes its name from the "Lombards," so-called Italian goldsmiths and moneylenders, who settled there in the beginning of the Twelfth century.

They were then commonly called "Longbeards," and the name of the thoroughfare was spelt indifferently Longbord and Langebred. A century or so later it had become corrupted into Langbourne—that is, "long brook"—and this misleading title is still retained for the ward in which it is situated.

The Blue Cape and Cupid

By ROSE MEREDITH

ELIZABETH stroked the blue wrap with some distaste. It had been bought weeks ago, when her engagement to Billy Drake had been the newest and the most wonderful thing in the world, and the long silken fringe which bordered the white sleeves had persuaded her to decide upon the garment. Billy had admired its graceful lines—he had played with the fringe as he talked of their glorious future together—they had laughed like children over the various things that the fringes ensnared, autumn leaves, wisps of flying paper, once a downy feather from some passing bird. And then, afterward, when a foolish misunderstanding had clouded everything, Elizabeth had pulled off her ring—his ring—and dropped it into his reluctant hand. The ring fell and, dropping, the delicate setting, caught on the wretched fringe! He had laughed grimly as he set about its dislodgement.

"I hate the old thing!" she half sobbed, as she brought it from the wardrobe and tossed it about her shoulders. The day was cold and her suit was rather light in weight for the advancing season.

Outside, the wind was moaning among the bare branches, and as she walked briskly toward the trolley car the heart of the little music teacher felt bleak and bare.

As the car moved on, Elizabeth thought of the uninteresting girl she was going to teach—Annie Smith, a child who had insisted upon learning to play "Hearts and Flowers"—and there had been many, many lessons, but Annie still stumbled over the same passages until Elizabeth was ready to cry with vexation. Today, Annie was more exasperating than usual.

To her own surprise Elizabeth comforted the child—for awhile she forgot her own loneliness and pain, while she brought a smile to wet blue eyes and sullen lips. "Let us try again," she suggested gently, and to their mutual surprise they had tried again and conquered. It was a glad little face that was lifted to Elizabeth's sad one, when the hour was ended.

"You have made me glad again," smiled Annie Smith.

Elizabeth thought of those words as she waited for the car that was to take her home. Would anything ever make her glad again? Never could she be glad again without Billy Drake. She brushed away hot tears and entered the car. Some one moved along to make room for her, a strong hand steadied her as the car lurched.

"Thank you," she turned and smiled mechanically at—Billy Drake, resuming his seat beside her! The wrap settled innocently about her slender form. Billy was replacing his hat, and, with a dear familiar gesture, was quite unconsciously smoothing the back of his sleek head. She saw it all—she knew it—she felt him so near, and all the while she sat straight and small, looking straight ahead.

The flat-wheel car clattered merrily on its way and Elizabeth noted with a heartsick pang that they were near Queen street, her stopping place.

"Queen!" bellowed the conductor, as the car rocked to a standstill.

Elizabeth arose, swept the folds of her blue wrap about her and started for the door. She felt a sickening tug at the long fringe of her right sleeve. She would not look around. A wave of pink colored her face as she felt a slight weight on her sleeve—what was the wretched fringe doing now?

"Step lively, there!" sang out the motorman jovially, as the car rocked away on its flat-wheeled career.

Elizabeth whirled around and confronted Billy Drake's amused and, at the same time, apologetic smile.

"I am sorry, Eliz—Miss Russell—I couldn't help it, you can see that—"

"Help what?" she asked frostily.

"I didn't expect to get off here," he apologized; "I was going on to King street—"

"I am very sorry," she said stiffly, and then in a sudden burst of vexation she added, "Why didn't you cut it off? Break it off. Now it's a wretched thing!"

He stood helplessly watching her stormy little face. His stern face softened. How unhappy they both were! How like children, breaking precious hours of their lives with silly misunderstandings.

Elizabeth gave one last tug and the threads snapped. The sudden release caused her to waver uncertainly. Billy's hand supported her—lingered on her arm—stayed there, boldly, as of old.

"I don't want to be set free," he said uncertainly, and Elizabeth, looking up, saw that his pleasant face was white, very white.

So they walked along Queen street as they had walked before the blue wrap had entered their lives. Billy Drake explained and Elizabeth listened and murmured soft little answers, and they lingered in the tiny living room, where a fire whispered on the hearth. When Billy went home he went whistling down the street in the old happy way, and Elizabeth was dropping a kiss on the precious ring on her third finger. As the blue wrap was hung away in the wardrobe Elizabeth gave it a little hug.

"You blessed old peacemaker!" she whispered.

Kept Within Law but Got His Shaft Home

A Mount Vernon (N. Y.) lawyer had lost but one case in a practice extending over 25 years. This particular case should never have been lost; the lawyer knew it and was correspondingly angered at the judge, whom he blamed for the loss of the case. Arising from his seat the lawyer addressed the court:

"Your honor, is it against the law to think?"

"Of course not," replied the judge.

"Is it against the law to tell what you think?"

"Of course not," replied the judge. "You know very well that it is not."

"Is it against the law to say at all times and anywhere what you honestly think, you honor?"

"Now, Mr. —, your experience teaches you that you can say at all times and anywhere what you really think," said the man on the bench.

"Well, your honor," said the defeated lawyer, "I think that the decision just handed down was rotten."

And he "got by" with it.
